

African Studies * Political Science

"This is a must-read for anyone seeking to understand the foreseeable world order. Intellectually stimulating and full of new ideas for policymakers and stakeholders operating in Africa, this edited volume is scrupulously careful to report only the facts about the continent's foreign relations, within the region and with the rest of the world. Francis Onditi and his collaborators have offered a new depiction of what they call the 'foreseeable world order' that may achieve a longstanding African aspiration to set a global agenda."

—DOUGLAS YATES, American University of Paris

"At a time when the African Union is engaged in a far-reaching debate on institutional and financial reform, Contemporary Africa and the Foreseeable World Order offers timely and stimulating perspectives on the place of the African continent in a changing world order. This is an important contribution to international relations scholarship on Africa, with an interest in changing values, rules, and institutions in Africa and how these relate to emerging new powers such as China."

—ULF ENGEL, University of Leipzig

Contemporary Africa and the Foreseeable World Order sheds light on the place of "Africa Agency" in the competitive and changing global system, providing those studying and working on African issues with innovative solutions, strategies, knowledge, and insights to support decision-making on how best African states should position themselves in the dynamic global system in order to influence key decisions.

CONTRIBUTORS Adriana Erthal Abdenur, Korwa Adar, Rosemary Anyona, Kasaija Apuuli, Abu Bah, Gilad Ben-Nun, Cristina D'Alessandro, Solomon Dersso, Cheryl Hendricks, Mercy Kaburu, Giovanna Kuele, Ushehwedu Kufakurinani, Zach Levey, Thaddeus Metz, Tim Murithi, Wesley Mwatwara, Fredrick Ogenga, Ken Oluoch, Tom Ondicho, Francis Onditi, Paul Opondo, Kizito Sabala, Tom Syring, Ken Walibora, Edmond Were, Frew Yirgalem

FRANCIS ONDITI is head of department of the School of International Relations and Diplomacy at Riara University.

GILAD BEN-NUN is senior researcher at Leipzig University.

CRISTINA D'ALESSANDRO is senior fellow at the Center on Governance at the University of Ottawa.

ZACH LEVEY is professor and chair of the Department of International Relations at the University of Haifa.

ONDITI, BEN-NUN,
D'ALESSANDRO,
and LEVEY

CONTEMPORARY AFRICA AND THE FORESEEABLE WORLD ORDER

CONTEMPORARY AFRICA AND THE FORESEEABLE WORLD ORDER

Edited by FRANCIS ONDITI,
GILAD BEN-NUN, CRISTINA
D'ALESSANDRO, and ZACH LEVEY

Foreword by Abu Bah

LEXINGTON BOOKS

An imprint of Rowman & Littlefield
800-462-6420 • www.rowman.com

Cover image © ttuna/iStock/Getty Images

